OUR MILITARY BUDGET. THE ATTACK UPON CHARLESTON OFFICIAL REPORT OF ADMIRAL DAHLGREN.

Particulars of the Death of the Brave Rodgers.

The Navy Department has received the following dispatches from Admiral Dahlgren, giving some interesting particulars of the important part taken by our Navy in reducing the defences of Charleston:

FLAG STEAMER DINSMORE, Off Morris Island, Aug. 19, 1863. Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of Navy,

Washington, D. C .: Sin: Yesterday was begun another series of operations against the enemy's works.

Early in the morning, Gen. Gilmore opened all the batteries upon Fort Sumter, firing over Fort Wagner and the intermediate space.

About the same time I moved up the entire available naval force, leading with my flag in th : Weehawken, followed by the Kaatskill, Na hant and Montauk; the Passaic and Patapaco in reserve for Sumter. The Ironsides in position opposite to Wagner, and the gunboats named in the margin at long range:-Canan. daigua, Capt. J. F. Green; Mahaska, Com'd'r J. B. Creighton; Cimmawon, Com'd'r A. K. Hughes; Ottawa, Lieut. Com'r W. D. Whitney; Wissabickon, Lieut. Com'r J. L. Davis; Dai Ching, Lieut. Com'r J. C. Chahlin; Lodona, Lieut. Com'r E. Brodhead.

As the tide rose, the Weehawken was closed to about four hundred and fifty yards of Wagner. The other three Monitors followed, and the Ironsides as near as her great draft of water

After a steady and well directed fire Wagner was silenced about 9% a. m., and that of our own vessels was slackened in consequence. Meanwhile the fire of our shore batteries was working effectually upon the gorge of Sumter, which appeared to have been strengthened in every possible manner.

At this time the the flag was shifted to the Passaic, which, with the Patapsco, (both haying rifle guns,) steamed up the channel until within two thousand yards of Fort Sumter, where fire was opened on the gorge angle and southeast front of the work.

The Patapsco fired very well, and is believed to have struck the southeast front nine consecutive times. To all this Sumter scarcely replied; Wagner was silenced, and Battery Gregg alone maintained a deliberate fire at the Passaic and Patapsco.

It was now noon. The men had been hard at work from daybreak and needed rest, so I withdrew the vessels to give them dinner. During the afternoon our shore batteries continued the fire at Sumter with little or no reply from the enemy, and I contented myself with sending up the Passaic and Patapsco to prevent Wagner from repairing damages. The fort replied briskly, but in a brief time left off firing.

I am not able to state with exactness the result of the day's work, but am well satisfied with what a distant view of Sumter allowed

Our entire power is not yet devoloped, as it will be daily, while the enemy is damaged without being able to repair.

The officers and men of the vessels effgaged have done their duty well, and will continue

All went well with us, save one sad exception. Capt. Rodgers, my chief of staff, was killed, as well as Paymaster Woodbury, who was standing near him.

Captain Rodgers had more than once asked on this occasion if he should go with me as usual, or resume the command of his vessel, the Kaatskill; and he repeated the quiry twice in the morning-the last time on the deck of the Weehawken, just while preparing to move into action. In each instance I replied, "Do as you choose." He finally said, "Well, I will go in the Ksatskill, and the next time with you."

The Weehawken was lying about one thousand yards from Wagner, and the Kaatskill, with my gallant friend just inside of me. The fire of the fort coming in steadily; observing the tides to have risen a little, I directed the Weehawken to be carried in closer, and the anchor was hardly weighed when I noticed that the Kaatskill was also underway, which I remarked to Capt. Calhoun. It occurred to me that Captain Rodgers detected the movement of the Weehawken, and was determined to be closer to the enemy, if possible. My attention was called off immediately to a position for the Weehawken, and soon after it was rejorted that the Kaatskill was 20 1g out of action, with signal flying that her captain was disabled. He had been killed instantly.

It is natural that I should feel deeply the loss thus sustained, for the close and confidential relation which the duties of Fleet Captain necessarily occasions, impressed me deeply with the worth of Captain Rodgers-brave, intelligent, and highly capable-devoted to his duty and to the flag under which he passed his life, the country cannot afford to lose such men. Of a kind and generous nature, he was always prompt to give relief when he could.

I have directed that all respect be paid to his remains, and the country will not, I am sore, omat to honor the memory of one who has not spared his life in her hour of trial. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant. JOHN A. DANLGREN, Rear Admiral

Com'dg So. At. Block. Squad'n. We receive from Cincinnati another assurance that Gen. Rosecrans' army is executing an important movement. The latest advices are to the 17th inst. General Hartsuff and Staff left Lexington on Friday to take the field. The Observer of that town says that in the past few days there has been quite a stir in military circles in that violaity. East Tennessee will doubtless soon be the theatre of important events. The tollowing paragraph is from the Chicago Times: "Rosecrans' army is nearing Chattanooga, where Bragg is strongly posted, and a battle any day is a matter of probable occurrence. It is conjectured that Bragg will receive reinforcements from Johnston. Burn. side's advance is moving steadily on ward, and will, it is stated reach Knoxville, Tennessee, within two weeks."

CONFIDENCE IN THE FINAL RESULT. ARRIVAL OF PRISONERS AND WOUNDED

[Special dispatches to the Baltimore American.] By the steamer Arkansas, which arrived yesterday morning at Philadelphia from Charleston harbor, we have received the following dispatches from the American's special correspondent, C. C. F .:

Opening of the Assault on Sumter. FLAGSHIP AUGUSTA DINSMORE, Tuesday morning, Aug. 18 .- The attack on Sumter was commenced at daybreak yesterday morning by the siege batteries of Gen. Gillmore and the naval battery on shore. At six o'clock Admiral Dahlgren proceeded on board the Weehawken, and with the Ironsides and the en-The Part Taken by our Gallant tire Monitor fleet attacked Wagner and Gregg with great fury, completely silencing Wagner and almost silencing Gregg. The wooden guaboats, seven in number, also joined in the assault and enabled all the shore batteries to pour their shot and shell into Sumter.

At 10 o'clock Admiral Dahlgren changed his flag to the Passaic, and with the Patapsco proceeded to within about 1,400 yards of Sumter and shelled the sea wall with the rifle guns of those vessels for about an hour, with marked

Fort Sumter fired about fifty return shot, doing no damage to ourselves, whilst the wall of Sumter was badly scarred

Fleet Captain George W. Rodgers took command of his old vessel, the Monitor Cattskill, and went up into the fight, going within 150 yards of the beach in front of Fort Wagner. After firing a number of shots a ball from Wagner broke a piece of the interior lining, which struck on the head of Commander Rod. gers, instantly killing him, as well as Paymaster Josiah G. Woodbury, who was stand. ing at his side. Both of their heads were split open. These were the only persons injured on land or water during the six hours engage.

The damage done to Sumter by the siege batteries of Gen. Gilmore is visible without the aid of a glass. The rebels had erected a false wall against the wall exposed to our batteries It extended to within ten feet of the top of the wall, and was over forty feet high and ten feet thick. This wall is now a mass of ruins, whilst the old wall is bored full of deep holes, the parapet crushed and ragged, and the northwest corner gashed and cracked down almost to the water's edge.

The harbor and Stono river are filled with torpedoes. About a dozen of them have been picked up in the Stone, and one was exploded under the Monitor Patapsco, raising her a foot out of the water, but doing no harm to the vessel. None of the vessels were injured in the least, and Admiral Dahlgren and the officers of the Monitors to batter down Sumter. He is, however, anxious to save the vessels for the heavy work required of them after Sumter is taken, and to let the army reduce Sumter if possible.

The fleet, except the Weehawken and Nahant, all retired before two o'clock. The latter remained to keep Wagner silent during the afternoon, and to prevent the remounting of their guns. The shore batteries continued firing all the afternoon and night on the wall of Sumter, with good effect.

Second Day's Bombardment. This (Tuesday) morning is cool and clear and the shore batteries are steadily at work. The Weehawken and Passaic are keeping Wagner and Gregg silent, and up to noon when the Arkansas sails, the remainder of the fleet are lying at moorings.

The bodies of Commander Rodgers and Paymaster Woodbury have been embalmed, and go North in the Arkansas. Gen. Gilmore announces that the work thus far has been entirely satisfactory, that the fort is greatly damaged, and the work of the reduction progressing finely. Admiral Dahlgren is much depressed by the loss of his Fleet Cap-of the fleet and army, and is very hopeful of ultimate success. Up to the moment of sailing, at noon, siege guns have been hurling about five shells per minute at Sumter, with marked effect. Two Monitors, the Ironsides, and some of the gunboats were shelling Wagner and Gregg. F.

tain, but is highly gratifled with the operations

The Plan of Attack.

[The following in relation to the proposed plan of attack on Fort Sumter was received from our correspondent by a previous arrival, but its publication withheld until we had positive knowledge that the bombardment had commenced.1

The most perfect harmony and unity of action exists between General Gilmore and Admiral Dahlgren They not only have hourly conversations by signals, but nearly every evening the Admiral crosses over to the Island and has a personal interview with the Gener-

The plan of attack agreed upon is to be earnest, but not rash. The siege batteries of General Gilmore will, at a given signal, open on Sumter, and the Ironsides will go in and anchor in front of Fort Wagner, and will, as she has frequently done before, keep silent the guns of that work by the constant use of her powerful battery. Thus Wagner, which is only about four hundred yards from General Gilmore's advance batteries, will be prevented from annoying the gunners whilst they pour their shell against rear wall of Fort Sumter. In the meantime Admiral Dahlgren will advance towards Sumter in the Monitor Passaic, followed by the Patapsco, both of which yessels have rifled guns. They will not at first advance further than from eight hundred to one thousand yards from Sumter, where they will anchor and test the effect of their eleveninch rifles on its walls. The fight will thus progress until a full test is had of the power of the rifle guns on shore and the rifle guns affoat to destroy its walls. Five of the wooden gunboats, with nine-inch rifles, will also stand off in the Swash channel, and throw shell into Moultrie and Battery Gregg at longe range.

The Admiral is determined to test the offensive power of the Monitors and allow General Gillmore full scope with his siege guns. If, after the fight progresses some time at long range, the Admiral should find that he can close the contest by rushing in with the whole Monitor fleet with their smooth bore 15-inch guns at short range, he will signal them at once. Thus the fight may possibly be only in the nature of a reconnoissance to feel the enemy, or it may be conclusive, according to cir-cumstances. The operations on land will, however, be with the whole batteries at command, numbering, with the mortar and siege guns, about sixty pieces.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH.] Arrival of Prisoners and Wounded-Sumter on Fire, &c., &c. PHILADELPHIA, August 23.-The United States supply steamer Arkansas arrived at the Navy Yard to-day from the South Atlantic Blockade Squadron, with 170 passenger-prisoners and wounded. She left Charleston harbor on Wednesday morning. She reports that the navy and army shore batteries have done tremendous destruction on Fort Sumter. The south and east faces of the fort looks like a honeycomb, and the implete demolition and demolishment of its walls are looked for in a week.

The Arkansas experienced very heavy weather from Charleston to the Capes of Virginia.

The Arkansas left the fleet at 7 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and at that time huge volumes of smoke were seen issuing from Fort Sumter, as if from the burning of cotton, and the officers of the Arkansas believe the fort would be captured or entirely destroyed by noon. Sumter's guns were replying feebly to Fort Gregg had been entirely silenced, but Fort Wagner still held out. The bombardment continued without cessation during Tneeday hight and was renewed on Wednesday morning There was farious firing when the Arkansas left, the Ironsides, five Monitors and the shore batteries being all engaged.

Two refugees from Savannah named Joseph H. Califf and John C. Collum, are passengers by the Arkansas. They report that there is nearly a famine in Savannah. Dr. Robert Gibbs, Surgeon of the Rebei ram Fingal, is a prisoner by the Arkansas, and will be sent to Fort Delaware.

THE LATEST REBEL REPORTS. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 .- The Press has received a Richmond Examiner of the list, containing the following, indicating the probable fall of Sumter. The Examiner says: "We have not heard either directly or indirectly that

Sumter has fallen, or been destroyed, or evacuated; but from the dispatch which is published this morning it is reasonable to be supposed that it has been much injured, and may become untenable. The event has proven what was hitherto thought, that the heavy ordnance now used will do considerable injury to fortifications constructed of any known materials other than earth, even at the distance of three thousand yards.

"Fort Wagner was exposed during forty days to the whole artillery of the enemy at only eight hundred paces, yet it still holds its own. and if in danger only from the cannonading would evidently last forever, while Sumter, which received the shot of a single battery at the immense distance stated, with occasional assistance from scary Monitors, suffers severely, and probably would have already crumbled but for the sand bags with which its walls have been strengthened." The articles thus concludes: " If Morris Island should fail entirely into the possession of the enemy, he may shut up Charleston as a port of entry, but it will not enable him to take the city while its defenders are determined to fight it out.'

Confirmatory Accounts of our Success. New York, Aug. 23 .- The Mobile Tribune copies approvingly an article from the Charleston Mercury, which says: "Since the Federal success Beauregard had better lay aside his engineering and artillery dueling, which are now played out, and take to the bayonet; and advises the authorities to reinforce Morris Island, or else abandon Charleston to the flames."

FORD'S NEW THEATER, on Tenth street, will be opened to the public on Wednesday evening next. This fine structure has been erected on the immediate site of the one destroyed by fire some five months since, and in its erection Mr. Ford has introduced all the latest and most modern improvements, while every precaution has been taken for ample security against accident by fire. The building is very capacious, and will seat over two thousand persons.

The opening performance will consist of the fine dramatic pageant entitled "The Naiad Queen." Among the performers engaged are Miss Annie Waite, Mrs. Bishop, Misses Mellville, Mr. C. B. Bishop, J. A. Herne, S. K. Chester, W. H. Burton and others.

The orchestra will be under the competent leadership of Mr. Wm. Withers.

Mr. Henry Ford, the accomplished treasurer of the theater burned last winter, will act in the same capacity for the new establishment The care and comfort of the audiences will be entrusted to Messrs. O'Brien and Plant, and that part will be well attended to.

day the bombardment was more furious than-on any day. The Ironsides, six Monitors and six gunboats, with all the enemy's laud batteries, opened on Battery Wagner at daybreak, throwing twenty shells per minute at our works. This continued until eleven o'clock, when the fleet and land batteries turned their their attention to Fort Sumter. The Ironsides and six Monitors approached within three-quarters of a mile of Sumter, and battered vigorously against the south face of the fort. Sumter replied briskly from her barbette guns.

The contest lasted about thee hours, when the fleet, having been struck very often, stood out of range, with flags at Lialf-mast. It is supposed some high Yanko naval officer has been killed.

The enemy's land batteries, of 200-pounder Parrott guns kept uy, a constant fire yesterday evening, and all last night against Sumter. The roar of canno i heard in the city was tremendous. The passalties at Sumter yester-day was one killed and thirteen wounded; at Battery Wagn r, seven killed and twenty-four wounded. Among the killed is Captain. Wampler, of Virginia, chief engineer at Wag-

AFFAIRS AT CHARLESTON. [From the Charleston Courier, Aug. 15.] During Thursday night a continued fire was kept up between the land batteries, and at intervals became very rapid and heavy. On Friday morning the enemy fired a few shell at Fort Sumter from the two mortar hulks which they have grounded on the beach, opposite their nearest battery to Fort Wagner. The shell, however, fell short of the mark. After this exhibition, the enemy remained wiet the rest of the day, our side still sending hem an occasional shell from Battery Simkins. About half-pasteight o'clock lastnight, another fierce cannonade opened between Batteries Gregg and Wagner and the Yankee batteries on Craig Hill. This firing was unusually rapid. It was reported that Battery Wagner gave the enemy the benefit of some new guns of heavier calibre, the fire frem which is believed to have been very effectual.

Gen. Beauregard has recently urged the departure of all non-combatants from Charlesion, and prohibited the ingress of any more. There should be no mistake concerning the views, either as to the imminency of the danger at this point, or as to the character of the defense that he will make.

Let it be distinctly understood by everybody that Charleston is to be defended to the last extremity. If the harbor is taken the city is to be fought street by street, and house by house, as long as we have a foot of ground to stand

It is high time that public attention should be directed to this subject. We were pleased to learn that the gentlemen composing the Commission met yesterday. We trust that in their efforts to make Charleston ready forthwith to stand shelling, they will have co-operation and assistance of the entire population. Nothing could stay us and the country in the event of its fall, but the most heroic and devoted exertions; nothing can save Charleston but a desperate defense. One and all, let us bestir ourselves, and make ready at once for the rapidly approaching struggle. Let none be caught napping, and no obstacles be thrown in the way of our military authorities.
